

INTERACTIVE VET SAFARIS

Join a unique hands-on adventure that gives you the opportunity to interact with researchers, ecologists, vets and guides while discovering the fantastic world of wildlife in Southern Africa. Designed to educate, these interactive safaris will take you into some of the country's best parks and concessions, under the leadership of an experienced wildlife vet and local guides. You will help with health control and wildlife management procedures such as collaring and microchipping, and the proceeds from your trip will contribute directly to conservation projects throughout Southern Africa.

Tracking an elephant herd

"AN INCREDIBLE EXPERIENCE"

"This was definitely a safari I will never forget. We collared a wild 20 year old female African elephant, and under guidance from the vet I took her temperature, injected her with antibiotics and monitored her breathing holding the end of her trunk in my hand. An incredible experience!"
