GOA

The beautiful region of Goa is situated on the west coast of India. Liberated from Portuguese rule in 1961, Goa is a melting pot of races, religions and cultures from both East and West. Known for its wonderful beaches and scenic beauty, the region also has a rich history and impressive architecture, with many splendid temples, churches and houses. The best time to visit is late September to early March, when the weather is dry and cool. May is hot and June to September is the monsoon season.
